

Maxxie, Suzzee & Cinema

Sam Abbas' new endeavor is a production company aiming to continually find unique visions of cinema. The primary focus is producing poetic works with powerful cinematographic visions by passionate world-class cinema auteurs. Not distinguishing between genres, the goal is to support new perspectives in cinema.

Maxxie, Suzzee & Cinema will be exclusively run by Abbas where he will serve as both CEO and CFO. The company will have access to its own production funding from a group of private investors eager to create arthouse projects.

Egyptian born, long-term NY resident, Sam Abbas who now resides in Paris explains this company will be different drastically from others. "I've created this company to allow filmmakers and give them the backbone in having absolute final say with how they want to make their films from development to end product."
